

Preventative Defense (PreFense®) Training

What is Preventative Defense and how can it be used as a powerful tool to support your existing school safety efforts? In order for any security effort to be truly effective it must be layered and integrated. Similar to the layers of insulation and protective shells of a winter coat, each layer provides an increasing level of protection for students and faculty from harmful elements. Protection is dependent upon each individual layer for its integrity and is only as strong as the weakest link.

Your People Are Your Most Valuable Asset

They are also your first line of threat detection and defense. Take advantage of these “forward observers” to proactively avoid, mitigate or defend against an attack by an active shooter, harassment, kidnapping and other violent acts can happen to anyone, anywhere. Combining protective window laminate (hardening your buildings) with professional Active Threat Control training (hardening your people) affords you unprecedented layered protection.

Active Threat Control Training options include:

Option 1 – Active Threat Identification

Course Length: 90 minutes

Content: PreFense® Lecture plus Q & A

Option 2 – Active Threat Avoidance

Course Length: 4 hours

Content: Soft Skills Physical Training

Option 3 – Active Threat Defense (unarmed)

Course Length: 6 hours

Content: Hard Skills Physical Training

Training Topics

How to spot and report pre-operational surveillance and other real-world threat indicators, what is and how to use protective intelligence, threat recognition, avoidance and mitigation, and how to manage a lethal attack. The Active Shooter Management segment of this professional training provides guidance for those who may one day hear shots ring out and need to know what to do. In full support of your existing critical incident management policy and procedures, this training provides the essentials of non-traditional threat management. It creates the safest and most secure educational environment available today. Take the initiative and find out more today. Click on www.PreventativeDefense.com for more information.